your end location as possible, however for large tanks the driver may require a little help lowering the tank to the ground to avoid additional charges.... If customers tank is 72" or more in length and/or 30" or more in depth customer will be required to have 2 - 3 additional people at the location and time of delivery to help lower the aquarium to the ground as the driver will need help with guiding it on the lift gate. This is a REQUIREMENT by the carriers to avoid extra fees, not an optional request. If customer does not have the additional help there at time of delivery customer will be responsible for any re delivery charges and any other relevant charges incurred from the carrier and hereby authorizes Custom Aquariums to charge customers credit card for any fees they incurred as a result of lack of adequate quantity of personnel at delivery. If the customer did not pay with a credit card, or the charges do not go through, the amount due will be invoiced due on receipt and paid by some other method. If payment is due and not made net 15, delinquency will void the warranty of all products on the shipment. If customer knows that they will not be able to have the additional people there at time of delivery then customer will need to hire additional help or explore other shipping options such as white glove service or commercial freight shipping. Customer will need to open the crate and look the aquarium over to determine that the tank arrived to you in as good of condition as it left us PRIOR to signing for the delivery.  Delivery to a residential area: There may be some exceptions to our free aquarium shipping policy for remote or difficult locations. The driver will deliver your crate curbside. The drivers will not under any circumstances handle the merchandise. It is your responsibility to bring your order inside. I have read and understand that I will have to uncrate and carry the items in my house myself or hire someone to do so for me. This option is not refundable for any circumstance once the items leave the Custom Aquariums facility. If shipment has already been arranged prior to cancellation, customer is responsible for any cancellation fees, and possibly all freight charges if shipment is non refundable. If shipping and handling is free, and the products are returned, the regular shipping charge according to our Shipping and handling rate chart, or actual charges including packaging if they exceed the amounts in our rate chart will be deducted from the total amount of the refund.
