$15,000*

Hey Eric,
I have Flynn (goldendoodle) who I think would be good for this. I would want to be training to the Pet Partners standards so that once he is with his handler for over six months he can take their test and be certified to do therapy in your facility. Since it isnt a full training, just basically public training and accepting any strangers, I wouldn't need to have you do the full program price. I would say I need about 7 months of work put into him. I would quote you all $15,000 for the training up to Pet Partners standard. Clients also cover the trip home, usually a flight, rental car and a hotel. I could stay for 2-4 days depending on the budget to help him settle into his handlers home.
Let me know if you have questions for me on this

Good Afternoon!

My name is Erik Morris and my department is looking at purchasing an emotional support canine.

I am reaching out to request information and pricing regarding an emotional support canine. I would appreciate a quote outlining available options, associated costs, training details, timelines, and any additional information you believe would be helpful.

For transparency and awareness, I have cc'ed my supervisor on this email as well.

If possible, please also include any documentation requirements, certifications, or support services associated with the process.

Thank you for your time and assistance. I look forward to hearing from you.
