Report of the Commission on the Status of Women, 1975, Vol. I, Part 1, Chapter 1, Section 1, Paragraph 1

The Commission on the Status of Women was established by the Economic and Social Council in 1946. It is the only global intergovernmental body exclusively dedicated to issues relating to the status of women. The Commission has played a leading role in the advancement of women's rights and the promotion of gender equality.

The Commission has held four world conferences on women, which have resulted in the adoption of the Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women and the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women.

The Commission has also been instrumental in the development of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, which is the most comprehensive and authoritative international policy framework for women's advancement.

The Commission has continued to work towards the achievement of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, and to promote the full and equal participation of women in all spheres of society.

The Commission has also been instrumental in the development of the Sustainable Development Goals, which are the 17 global goals for sustainable development adopted by the United Nations General Assembly in 2015.

The Commission has also been instrumental in the development of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, which is the global action plan for sustainable development adopted by the United Nations General Assembly in 2015.
